

Germany Arena for Tug-of-War Communism Versus Democracy

By Ross Munro

BERLIN (CP)—Having political feeling today Germany is an arena for an ideological tug-of-war between Russian Communism and western ideas of democracy.

In the Soviet zone the Communist party has been built up rapidly, dominating the Socialist party with which it is allied. Informal opinion is that Russia hopes eventually for a Communist Germany.

There is no sign that the western zone is accepting Communism rapidly, however, and this may produce a radical change in Soviet policy.

New Campaigns Underway
There is no exaggeration to say the Communist party spreads the political field east of the Elbe river. New campaigns aimed at fusing the Communists and Socialists in western zones now are in the making.

This creates a difficult political situation which British authorities are meeting by encouraging such parties as the Socialists and the Christian Democrats to practice British democratic methods, although no efforts are being made to "smoke down" Communism in this zone.

The feeling is that if democracy is to have a fighting chance in western Germany, the Germans must be given work and hope. To the British and the Americans, a five-year plan for the zone.

Difficult Task
Under this plan, Britain would work through political parties, trade unions and churches to instill the fundamental ideas of democracy. It would be a long and difficult task.

The Russians are trying to hold up the example of Communism to the western zone by pushing industrial recovery, land reform and increased rationing.

While the Germans appear to dislike the Russians even more than the other occupying forces, these educated people grab now at any signs of sufficient inducement is offered. You feel the Germans are putting their votes on the auction block.

Slow Increase British
The food crisis in the British zone of Germany is being considerably and there is a possibility that for the next ration period starting shortly German rationing will be increased.

British authorities are eager to add to the present rationing of slightly more than 1,000 calories daily to halt deterioration in the German attitude toward British occupation forces. The prolonged

Arms Makers Admit 'Gifts'

WASHINGTON (AP)—Two million makers who got their start to riches as armament makers today openly acknowledged footing the bills in one year more than $100,000 for Christmas gifts of whisky and expensive compacts in Washington during the war years—but denied knowledge of who got them.

Unsuccessfully, the senate war profiteers committee attempted to draw from Allen B. Gellman and Joseph T. Weiss an admission they knew their Washington representatives were passing out the presents to officials to "courry" favor on contracts.

"Even government workers are human," said Gellman as he insisted present gifts of gifts "for goodwill" was a common business practice and "I don't see anything wrong morally or anyway with it."

Absolve Motorist In Fatal Mishap

CALGARY (CP)—An accident which Coroner Dr. George R. Johnson termed "inexplicable," took the life of Russell Thomas Martin, 26, of Lacombe, Sask. Monday night, and the coroner's jury, Tuesday, absolved Elmer Schultz, Calgary, driver of the auto involved.

Martin was injured fatally when run over by Schultz's car while watching preliminaries to a football game at a Calgary school grounds. He died two hours after the accident.

Schultz told the coroner's court he had driven to the school grounds, left his auto for a few minutes, returned and started to drive away when he heard a shout. Martin was taken from beneath the car. Schultz said he had seen no car in front of his auto, and that he had moved ahead but six feet.

Security has affected adversely the British program of rehabilitating the German economy and of developing democratic political thinking.

There will be a reasonably good harvest in the zone despite a scarcity of fertilizer, which is reducing yields and officials predict the situation is bound to improve with harvesting now under way.

No Disturbances
A few months ago many officials held grave fears that there would be serious food riots in big cities and in the Ruhr because of ration cuts and it is surprising there have been no disturbances. Extra rations are being distributed in some districts where there are definite signs of undernourishment and increased disease in cities but the people generally are not dying from starvation. In country districts they eat fairly well.

If most Germans had lived on the official ration—which in effect means the United Kingdom ration for three days a week—there would have been widespread starvation in cities but the people generally are not dying from starvation. In country districts they eat fairly well.

The Germans get extra rations somehow. "It is extremely difficult to determine exactly where," the official said.

Black market in food still flourishes and that is given by most Germans as the source of additional food they obtain so mysteriously.

Begin Showdown Occupation Policy

By Charles Nichols
LONDON.—Showdown with Russia over the economic policy in defeated Germany began Wednesday as the British government instructed its experts in Berlin to examine the possibility of economic unity in the two western occupation zones.

The move does not shut the door on Russia's participation in the unification of a German economy—a principle accepted by the Big Three in their Potsdam protocol, but subsequently disregarded by the Russians. The Russians, who have refused to accept the Potsdam foreign ministers' council to consider unification, will be given the opportunity to revise their stand when the foreign ministers' council meets again after the Paris peace conference. But in the meantime, they have been given the blunt warning that if Russia will not work with them, Britain and the U.S. are going to go their own way in order to make their occupation zones more prosperous and self-sufficient.

Because the Russian occupation zone is the granary of Germany, it is able to maintain the food ratio at a higher rate than the western zones. The British and Americans have to import foodstuffs at an annual combined cost of $250,000,000. The Russian zone, however, is able to produce its own foodstuffs and to export surpluses.

The writer professed bafflement at a number of other things he observed in the Russian zone. He was convinced that with the help of Esperanto they could make the atomic bomb faster than the Russians.

This was one of the many "peculiarities" gleaned from his recent North American tour and noted by the readers of the Soviet government newspaper, Pravda.

B.B.C. Faces War With Commercials
By Basil Dean
LONDON.—A radio war between state-monopoly British Broadcasting Corporation and commercial radio stations in the European continent seems foreshadowed by the debate in the commons on the future of broadcasting policy here.

The British government has not only turned its back on sponsored radio, but Deputy Prime Minister Morrison indicated that the day that Britain is attempting to gain control of Europe's principal commercial transmitter—Radio Luxembourg. Ostensibly, this is for the benefit of the British Isles, but few Britons doubt that the real reason is to prevent the use of this powerful long-range transmitter to catch every ear in the British Isles with ease, as a medium of commercial broadcasting.

For some reason, the British government seems afraid of the effect of the propaganda emanating from outside the country. Mr. Morrison has claimed that the radio is not like the idea of "children's hymns interspersed with advertisements for somebody's pills." It has been suggested that what Labor really wants is the radio as a medium of time on commercial stations by Conservative and other opposition parties.

Such suggestions are not entirely groundless. In any case, it is clear that the British policy will be to avoid commercial radio like the plague. The fact that the recent Gallup poll figures show that more than half the British would like either commercial broadcasting or at least some form of competition for B.B.C.

Attach Importance To Churchill Visit
PARIS (Reuters)—Winston Churchill's visit to France for Bastille Day ceremonies Sunday came what may prove to be a turning point in French foreign policy. French statesmen are suffering from the shock of Foreign Minister Molotov's categorical rejection of French ideas about detaching the Ruhr from the rest of Germany.

The conversation at Monday night's dinner in Paris between Mr. Churchill and President Bidault has remained confidential, but it is more than likely that Bidault stressed two points: The importance of bringing the British and French viewpoints in the Ruhr into the closest possible accord, and the importance of insuring French coal supplies.

The French attitude toward Britain remains one of friendliness and sympathetic admiration, as Mr. Churchill's extraordinarily welcome welcome to Metz Sunday proved. But the French remain puzzled by what appears to them British behavior in regard to French security against her potentially overpowered and aggressively-minded neighbor Germany.

Budget Sad Blow To Patrick Ashby

OTTAWA (CP)—Pro-budget excitement and expectancy and the let-down after the annual fiscal statement was brought down was described Tuesday in the commons by Patrick Ashby, credit member for Edmonton East.

He said: "I was greatly disappointed in the budget when it was brought down. For weeks we had talked about it. My hopes began to rise. I became more expectant every moment and the time arrived when the budget was going to be brought down. The bill came. I rushed out of my office and rushed back to comb my hair. I was an excited and expectant man. I had to go back again to see the budget brought in. But what a disappointment it was."

"I am not an old political warhorse. I am a newcomer and perhaps my hopes were too high. I looked for too much. I heard but little that went on. My eyes were glued to the door. I expected that any moment the doors would open, there would be a blizzard of silver trumpets and then a long procession of dignitaries followed by the budget, looking for all the world like a great, huge, decorated in cabbage leaves and a sprig of spring onions."

"I was instead of that, all I saw was a weary looking minister of finance and a couple of sober-faced deputy ministers who looked as though they had a good firm dinner they could develop flatulence."

"I am not blaming the minister of finance. I do not think the minister of finance drew up the budget. He said it was drawn up by the technicians, the civil servants behind the scene who are running Canada today."

Britain Keeps Ban Commercial Radio
LONDON (CP)—Herbert Morrison, government leader in the commons, Tuesday has reaffirmed the ban on commercial broadcasting in Britain, to renew the B. B. C.'s charter for five years without an immediate inquiry into its operations, and dropped another hint about a possible investigation of Britain's news service.

Mr. Morrison said it is not true the B. B. C. is "under the thumb" of the government.

It is gratifying to learn that many voices do this. And so, if it of our colleges are including the study of marriage in their curriculum. Surely this fills a long felt want, for the one thing that boys and girls need to know more than anything else is how to pick out their mates and live with them in reasonable peace ever afterwards.

SURELY MANY a domestic tragedy will be avoided when the adolescent boys and girls are made to take their temperature and diagnose the palpitations from which they are suffering are not caused by the grand passion but indigestion, and that the remedy for it is bicarbonate and not marriage. And without doubt, the greatest accomplishment that any human being can ever learn is how to handle the opposite sex without friction. Generally it takes about three di-

IF A BOY has always seen his father treat his mother as if she were still a lady love; if Dad has been gentle and kind and considerate of mother, it is dollars to doughnuts that he will handle his own wife that way. But if he has grown up in a family where "the wife's status was only that of an unpaid servant; if he has seen her knocked about, sworn at, her plans are and happiness never considered, the chances are that he will make a doormat of his own wife.

Of course, there are exceptions to every rule, and this is true of marriage as of everything else. For, while boys and girls do almost always make the kind of husbands and wives that their parents are, there are cases in which they revolt against the family pattern. Many a man is over-tender to his wife because his father was so harsh to his mother. Many a wife spoils her husband to death because she was always so sorry for her poor, down-trodden father.

UNDOUBTEDLY teaching youngsters in college the rudiments of how to select their mates and how to make marriage the blessed estate it should be will be provocative of much good and save many a divorce and broken-up home. But I still advise youngsters who are contemplating matrimony to take a post-graduate course by giving the home life of their intendeds the once-over before they sign up on the dotted line.

Big Political Campaign Being Waged in Turkey

ISFANBUH, July 18 (AP)—A full-blown political fight is raging in Turkey, a harbinger that this old land with three sultans two decades ago is coming of age democratically.

WHILE THERE WERE infrequent inter-party battles in Turkey's chaotic, bloody and fantastic history opposition was crushed promptly but this time the opposition apparently is here to stay, and the citizens are getting their first look at how a real campaign, with all its name-calling and mud-slinging operates.

They have been startled by some of this name-calling, particularly that directed against President Ismet Inonu himself, a personage who heretofore was criticized only in guarded whispers.

The election is scheduled for July 21. Two profoundly important decisions form the background of this development in self-government. First was abolition of all bans against political groups other than the reigning Republican People's party; second was a ruling by the court of appeals reversing the conviction of four newspaper writers sentenced to prison for "offending the dignity" of the government.

While Turkey proclaimed herself a republic after overthrow of the decadent Ottoman empire in the revolution 25 years ago, there were many who scoffed at the designation and contended that no sun ever held a firmer grip on its people than did iron-man Ataturk and his successor, Inonu.

PUBLIC MEETINGS were banned. Newspapers were suspected for criticisms the government disliked. The political police—as efficient in the world—had little else to do.

While government supporters said the lowering of the ban last December against political parties was a natural evolution in a growing democracy, opponents contend it was a step necessary by internal pressure and external forces. Immediately after the ban was eliminated, four parties sprang up but of these only the Democracy party headed by the old revolutionary and one-time prime minister Celal Bayar assumed stature sufficient to frighten the Inonu government.

BAYAR, LONG A hard-boiled critic of Inonu and his government, said he would refrain from participating in the national election on grounds that Inonu broke his pledge to the nation not to hold elections until the press and police laws had been eliminated.

Inonu replied that Bayar's withdrawal from the elections was not a tactic used by parties in certain lands where failure to participate was designed to "accuse the government in the eyes of other nations."

But no effort was made to stem the growing political battle. The official paper Ulu announced that newspapers could support or condemn any party they wished without fear of reprisals.

THEN, IN THE heat of the growing campaign, the court of appeals handed down what governmental audacious consideration of the history of the republic. It held that four sentences in the wake of the violent riots last Dec. 4, which wrecked two newspaper plants, should be released from jail and given new trials.

Turkey's adolescence in self-rule appears to be over.

China Communists Found University

PEIPING, July 18 (CP)—Chinese Communists are founding a university to which students preferring capitalism will be welcome, provided they unlimber their capital and pay their own way.

STUDENTS AND professors who do not believe in Communism will be invited to live under a communal system, but the capitalists in their midst will have to live "on their own means."

This is the way Chancellor Fan Wanlan put it in explaining the operations of North Fan Tan University, soon to be established at Shuatai, in southern Hupeh province of central China.

The party line will be bent to in feeding the mouths of the students but in feeding the intellects of the students the party line will be bent out the window, says the Chancellor.

FAN SAYS THAT the university will not be interested in the political tinge of the professors, since absolute freedom of thought and action are the first requirements of progressive education.

Since 1939, Fan has been at Communist headquarters in Yenan doing research and organizing his material for students at the new university, he said in an interview. The university already has more than 700 enrolled, he reported.

A 1917 graduate of the University of Peiping, Fan has taught at National University of Peiping, Sino-French University, Daitale University for Women and China College.

THE LAST TEACHING job he had was up around the Honan provinces border in northern Hupeh from 1937 to 1939—his students young guerrillas, his curriculum the fine art of exterminating Japanese.

Attention Builders! Shortages of Housing Materials

Veterans, Contractors and Others engaged in building homes or industrial premises, the construction of which is being held up by shortages of materials, are invited to communicate with:

The Director of Housing,
Department of Economic Affairs,
Provincial Building,
100A Street, 101A Avenue,
EDMONTON, Alberta.

Applicants should state specifically the materials or supplies required, quantities specifications and the limits of price.

No undertaking is given or implied that such materials or supplies can be procured.
However, the Department of Economic Affairs, in order to remove the bottle neck to building, will make every effort to secure materials in short supply in quantities and if successful, to allocate these on an equitable basis.

All applicants should state the type of building for which materials are required, and if action is in the course of erection.

Priorities will be given to homes for veterans.

Three Persons Hurt In Traffic Crashes

Three persons were injured and nine cars and other traffic-vehicles were damaged Wednesday afternoon and evening in a series of accidents which kept members of the city police traffic squad checking from one end of the city to the other.

HURT WERE
Fred Krause, 11803 94 street, lacerations about the head.
Leonard Heuman, 11934 56 street, cut lip.

Harold F. Cowherd, 10312 142 street, facial lacerations, possibly fractured ribs.
Krause and Cowherd were both detained in hospital overnight while Heuman was released following treatment.

ACCORDING TO POLICE, Krause was a passenger in a car driven by Heuman north on 95 street just before 10 p.m. Wednesday. The car is alleged to have crashed into the rear of a trolley-bus operated by Motorman D. F. Olson, 18214 106 avenue, when first vehicle stopped at the intersection of 109A avenue.

Heuman told the traffic squad he had pulled over to the curb to permit another auto to pass him and the bus coming to a stop, resulted in the crash. Krause was removed by Smith's ambulance to the Royal Alexandra.

COWHERD WAS RUSHED to the same hospital by Smith's ambulance shortly after 7 p.m., after police found his automobile smashed against an electric light standard in the centre of Jasper avenue near the Capitol theatre.

The motorist was unable to give police information regarding how the accident occurred, and was slated to undergo X-Ray examination Thursday in order that full extent of his injuries can be ascertained.

Police removed the wrecked car from the centre of the avenue where it was preventing the passage of street cars.

OTHER ACCIDENTS, in which no one was injured, at 97 street and 111 avenue, one auto plowed into the side of another on Kingsway near the airport; another, near the airport, smashed into the rear of the auto it was following, which vehicle came to a standstill; on the Dawson hill, a car side-swiped another travelling in the opposite direction, both vehicles suffered crumpled fenders.

Alberta's economic resources, this board would be empowered to issue against the capital assets of the province "credit deposits" sufficient to maintain a balance.

To Test Validity Of Legislation

Validity of Alberta's bill of rights will be tested in the courts in a hearing set for Calgary on Sept. 16 next, and it is understood the province of Saskatchewan has joined with Alberta in the submission to the courts.

ANNOUNCEMENT of the date of the hearing was made Thursday by His Honor, Chief Justice Horace Harvey. It was announced also that George H. Steer, K.C., Edmonton barrister, would represent the Dominion government at the hearing, and E. J. Chambers, K.C., the Canadian Bankers' Association.

The legislation was referred to the courts by the government of Alberta. When the bill was being considered in the legislature Premier Ernest Manning stated it would not be given royal assent until its validity had been tested by the courts.

THE BILL OF RIGHTS provides that every unemployed citizen of the province of Alberta from 19 to 60 years of age, and those over 60 who have retired, will be entitled to a pension of not less than $60 a year.

The legislation provides for the establishment of a five man board of credit commissioners to evaluate

Alberta Awaiting Reply from Isley

No reply has yet been received by the Alberta government to a letter outlining its reception of the federal government's budget in which it requested a reconvening of the Dominion-Provincial conference in order to clarify the Dominion's position in respect to Alberta, it was learned here Thursday.

HON. W. A. FALLOW, acting premier, said, "We have received no reply yet from Finance Minister Isley to the questions asked by Premier Manning."

He was replying to an earlier report that Premier John Hart of British Columbia and Hon. C. M. Fines, provincial treasurer of Saskatchewan, had been invited to Ottawa for negotiations on tax transfer proposals.

MR. FALLOW said that to date none had been appointed from the Alberta cabinet as a delegation to Ottawa.

Of the nine provinces, only two—New Brunswick and Saskatchewan—have recorded willingness to enter into separate agreements with the Dominion on the pattern of its budget.

IT IS UNDERSTOOD that other provinces are considering similar steps to those of Alberta in pressing the federal government for a reconvening of the Dominion-Provincial conference.

NAMED TO BOARD
M. M. Cunningham of Red Deer has been appointed as a member of the Industrial Development Board.

Pickpockets at Fair Grounds Fleece Victims of Valuables

Placing emphasis on the victims' - on the drive by city police to educate the general public against the presence of pickpockets in Edmonton Exhibition crowds, a total of $185 in cash and valuables was reported to have been plucked from the pockets of the unwary at the fair grounds Wednesday.

ONE OF THE VICTIMS was a blind man, Hugh Anderson of 9652 Jasper avenue, who told police detectives that $80 was taken from his person near the pari-mutuel headquarters at the race track. He said he felt a hand in his pocket and soon afterward the money was missing.

Francis D. Armilage of Westlock complained of $20 cash and $35 worth of stock shares being lifted from his hip pocket. He said he was "bumped" by three men on a stairway in the grandstand. At the same time his wallet disappeared; it was found later, empty.

A POCKETBOOK CONTAINING $20 in cash was reported lifted from the hip pocket of Joe Baichler, 11833 125 street. The theft occurred near the race track, police were told.

A youth visiting the city from New Westminster, B. C., had another tale of woe for the detectives, involving $400. He told police he was standing in a lane, location of which he said he didn't know, counting his money when another young man approached and after a few minutes conversation, grabbed the money and ran away. Victim was Frederick J. Frick, 23, of the British Columbia city.

Special Areas Tax Rates Set

Announcement has been made of mill rates for the levying of taxes for 1946 in special areas of Alberta.

Following is the schedule: Special Areas (districts) tax 15 mills; school division tax, 13 mills; hospital districts tax, 4 mills; social services tax, 3 mills; education tax, 3 mills.

The board is comprised of representatives of various cities, and acts in an advisory capacity to the provincial government on industrial development.

Set Schedules Hours of Work

Two new schedules for maximum hours of work and minimum pay for workers in the auto repair and gasoline service station industry in Calgary and Medicine Hat, have been approved by the provincial government. In Calgary, the working week is set at forty-six and one half hours to be performed during five and one half days. In Medicine Hat the working week is set at forty-eight hours in five and one half days. Rates of pay vary. The schedules come into effect July 23.

The "disgraceful condition" of approaches to street cars at intersections along 114 avenue has resulted in a flood of protests from patrons of the street railway system who have been compelled to wade through a flood of mud and water to board street cars.

THROUGHOUT THE WEEK patrons have had to detour from the intersections, and approach the loading platforms along the street car tracks, and Thursday morning mothers were seen ferrying their children to the street cars to keep them out of the mud. Sickly shined shoes looked like those worn by farmers after a day of plowing on heavy land.

At many intersections, there were pools of water several inches deep, and there was not an intersection from 95 street through the length of the line to the exhibition grounds that afforded anything like decent footing from sidewalks to the street car tracks.

JUST PRIOR to exhibition week the doubletracking of this avenue from 95 street to a point just east of 80 street was completed. This was undertaken to provide rapid service for the summer fair and cost approximately $2,000.

When this work was underway it was understood that some grading would be done in the intersections, but no action was taken to provide safe and dry footing to patrons of the transportation system, although requests for the grading were made by aldermen conversant with the deplorable conditions that exist along this avenue when there is a period of heavy rains.

Police Chief Is Victim Of Lockups

As head of Edmonton's city police department, Chief Constable R. Jennings has been the victim of several weeks' kidding behind the department's campaign to educate the public against carelessness in exhibition crowds.

Edmontonians and visitors to the city have been conjured to be on their toes, to look their cars, to hang onto their purses with an iron grasp and not to be lulled into a false sense of security by the way of thefts or losses.

Thursday morning, the chief was conducting another campaign—this one a strictly personal basis. Wednesday evening he and his wife attended the exhibition.

They lost the keys to their home, their car and other lockups about the downtown area. "I have a couple of clues," the chief said smiling when remarking that he was working on the case.

Plan New Search For Lost Airman

The RCAF's para-rescue squad has returned to Edmonton, the search for Joe Barber, missing since the crash of his plane, Wednesday, and ten men from the heavy Edmonton by plane for Port Nelson, to continue the search.

BARBER HAS BEEN MISSING several days. His aircraft was abandoned with no sign of the pilot, and since then the RCAF in cooperation with United States fliers and experienced bush-chasers the area.

Have washed away any signs that might have been left by the flier, according to searchers.

Ministers Return From North Visit

Acting-Premier W. A. Fallow, Hon. E. J. Tanner, minister of lands and mines, and Hon. C. E. Gerhart, minister of municipal affairs and trade and industry, have returned to Edmonton following a visit Wednesday to Fort McMurray by Canadian Pacific Air Lines.

Although no official statement was available on the purpose of the visit Thursday it was understood to have been in connection with the government's interests in the extraction of the crude oil from the tar sand deposits in the Fort McMurray area, at the pilot plant.

Land Clearing Project Halted

No further developments have occurred in the provincial government's negotiations with contracting firms for the clearing, scrubbing and breaking of 100,000 acres of land for veterans' agricultural purposes in the Tangent area of the Peace River district, it was learned Thursday.

IN EARLIER REPORTS it was hoped that 10,000 acres of the 100,000 would be ready for occupancy by veterans for the seeding of crops next spring, but the contract under negotiation since last fall with a Seattle firm, had not yet been approved.

In addition to the Seattle firm, Lassiter's Ltd., a local firm, will be given consideration by the government.

Before The Magistrate

R. J. Corke was sentenced to one year's imprisonment for the theft of an automobile, and three months on a charge of theft of a motorcycle when he appeared before Magistrate H. L. Howe, K.C., in city police court Wednesday. Hard labor was imposed with the sentences which are to run concurrently.

Found guilty on a charge of stealing an electric razor, Richard W. Wyatt, appearing in court with a heavy growth of whiskers, received a 12 months' suspended sentence. The accused was charged with having stolen the razor and selling it to a second hand store.

One police court attendant was heard to mumble Wednesday morning, "It is Citizens' day at the Exhibition and one would almost think it was the same here with these 31 names on the docket." Many of the offences were of a minor nature and were quickly dealt with, while the more serious offences, including two of the charges were withdrawn.

Jean Marie Gauthier of Edmonton who pleaded guilty to removing an automobile from its parking spot on 102 avenue with the intention of operating it without the consent of the owner, Edward R. Davies, also of Edmonton, was sentenced to six months hard labor at Fort Saskatchewan jail in city police court Thursday. On a charge of operating a car while intoxicated, he was sentenced to 30 days' imprisonment, the sentences to run concurrently.

George Ho Lem of Dawson Creek was fined $10 and costs with the option of 14 days' imprisonment for driving an automobile at a rate of speed adjudged unreasonable. Wallace Bardeck was sentenced to one day's imprisonment for vagrancy, dating from his arrest Wednesday, while on a similar charge, Walter Romanchuk will spend the next 30 days at Fort Saskatchewan.

Adjournments were granted Victor Carlson, charged with dangerous driving, to July 24; and Walter Powlik, charged with theft of auto, to July 26. Russell J. Tierney and James J. Conley, charged jointly with the theft of a tool box, were set over to Saturday for decision of the magistrate.

Citizens Cautioned To Lock Up Cars

A blanket stolen from his automobile at the Exhibition grounds' southern parking lot Wednesday was reported to city police Thursday by Gordon Shaw of 10717 78 avenue. Police said that vigilance on the part of a group of ex-service-men keeping tab on the parking lot has kept such incidents down to a minimum. Citizens were again cautioned, however, to exercise every care in locking their cars and leaving no valuables in the vehicles.

'Alligator Boy,' 'Monkey' Girl Happily Wed Despite Weird Tricks Played by Nature

By Eleanor Hoffman

Although they are an abnormal pair of human beings and have been public display since they were babies, the world's strangest marriage couple—the monkey girl and the alligator boy—are one of the happiest and most contented "exotics" in the United States.

Emmitt Bejano and his wife, Perilla, who are entertaining in Edmonton at this year's exhibition, proved in an interview to be at par with the average man and woman in intelligence, co-operation and sense of humor.

Only 27 years of age, both Mr. and Mrs. Bejano, who have been married for the past three years, have long ago accepted the fact that they are "different" in their appearance and have made the best of it. Famous doctors at the best hospitals in the U.S.A. have tried every possible technique of modern surgery on Mr. Bejano's skin but to no avail.

Mr. Bejano said simply, "It's just something that cannot be explained."

He sheds his alligator skin twice a year. Since there is no pores on his body, each summer he has to keep his skin moist with cold water to keep the air penetrating through.

Normal at Birth

What's even more phenomenal than his appearance is that he wasn't born that way. He was quite normal up to the age of five months, and even today his face is free from any scaly alligator-like skin. His three brothers and one sister are all normal. His wife, too, was the only abnormal person in her family of three sisters and a brother.

Mrs. Bejano is covered with a black growth of hair, with a heavy beard on her face. To make her appearance even more unusual, she possesses a double row of teeth.

The couple met in show business and two years later were married. They had a baby daughter who has two little brothers and one sister. They travel with them and whom they occasionally call their daughters. One of them, Mittens by name, is a rare black Pekie, and the other, Van Toy, was given to them by her husband as a wedding present when they were married.

Mr. and Mrs. Bejano are so used to being stared at that it doesn't bother them in the least. Crowds of curious people taken as a matter of course, for they've been in the show business ever since they can remember.

I feel just as much at home in front of the mike and that crowd as I do talking to you," Mr. Bejano said.

Florida Home

"They make their home in Florida where they spend their three months' annual vacation from the show. Here they spend a normal and happy domestic life where Mr. Bejano does all their own housekeeping. She loves cooking and sewing and makes her own clothes. And proving her ability as a cook, she once made a recipe called "Louisiana Purchase." The chef tried it and the entire troupe claimed it was delicious.

Their home life is normal and congenial, with the usual good-natured jokes played on one another. Mr. Bejano was once almost hit over the head with a tea pot he gave her as a joke on their anniversary.

"I knew her birthday was coming along very shortly and I could make it up to her by giving her the sewing machine she wanted," he laughed.

"And the tea pot was something I definitely didn't want for a birthday present," his wife laughed in reply.

Like nearly all young girls, Mrs. Bejano loves to dance and has a private collection of live music to dance to. For her own personal enjoyment, however, she loves the classics and has several records in reply.

Making Their Home in Winnipeg

Life Under Nazis in Holland

Described by Dutch War Bride

By Kay Ford

After a wedding in Gorinchem, Holland, to J. D. Wear, of Edmonton, of the Royal Canadian Corps of Signals, Fourth Division, Mrs. Wear, the former Miss Betty Hase, daughter of Mrs. M. J. Hase and Mr. J. Hase of Gorinchem, has arrived in Edmonton to join her husband and is staying with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Wear, 11202 96 St.

The bridegroom met his bride at a home in Breda, Holland, where she was stationed and she was visiting her grandparents. Later they were married in the Town Hall in Gorinchem on Dec. 14, 1945. She wore a wedding gown sent to her by Mrs. Wear.

Speaking English with a soft English accent, the young Dutch girl said she learned English in school as well as German and French. After leaving school she worked in a library in her home city.

Father Imprisoned

In 1940 when the Germans entered Holland, Betty and her mother were told to flee their home with their two children. Her father who was a sergeant-major in the permanent Dutch army was in an office, where coupons for coal were examined. His neighbor was taken to the same office but he was shot by the Germans for sabotage. Jews were hidden in his house as all during the war in 1943 the Germans were billeted in his mother's house.

No Utilities

While Betty's mother and four-year-old sister were never actually hungry because Gorinchem is a city of 17,000 and has large stores, she said that during the last winter of the war, there was no gas, no coal and very little food. They lived in the kitchen in the dark and had water for only two hours a day and to 10 a.m. There was no coal to keep the water machines working.

She said she called for Canada on the Queen Mary arriving in Halifax on June 15, 1946. She was met in Winnipeg by her husband. She finds the Canadian people most kind and friendly and it is impossible to find supplies of food and clothing in this country. She says Holland is still very short of food, sugar and clothing.

Mrs. F. C. Long and Mrs. Rosemarijke, who were bridesmaids, were in the room and Miss Dorothy Diehl, of the guest book.

Later the couple left for a wedding trip to Banff. Travelling, the bride wore a blue wool two-piece suit with matching hat, accessories in white, and corsage of pink roses and carnations.

Later the couple left for a honeymoon in Edmonton, the bride traveling in a turquoise suit with black accessories. Her corage was a headpiece of blue net with white points and blue delphinium. Mrs. J. M. Kimmer and Mrs. J. H. Warner were bridesmaids. The bridesmaids wore a light blue dress with a white sash. The bride's bouquet was a bouquet of white roses. The bride's veil was a long white veil. The bride's shoes were white shoes. The bride's hair was styled in a short bob. The bride's face was made up with white makeup. The bride's eyes were lined with black eyeliner. The bride's lips were painted with red lipstick.

Mrs. Margaret Dadds, sister of the bride was bridesmaid and wore a pink taffeta gown styled with a pink net overskirt. Short pink mittens were worn with the gown and her finger-tip veil was held in place with a wreath of white flowers. She carried a bouquet of red roses.

Best man was H. E. Christenson of Tofield. The bridesmaids were Dan Dadds and Tom Kimmert.

Mrs. Dadds wore a turquoise blue crepe dress, black hat and a corsage of Tallman roses. Mrs. Hallett, the bridegroom's mother, wore an olive green dress with gold and green hat and

YUGOSLAV PARLIAMENT OPENS FIRST REGULARLY CONVENED SESSION

JAPANESE FOUNDRIES FASHION WAR WEAPONS INTO POTS AND PANS

Copyright, 1946, by Acme Newspictures, Inc.

YUGOSLAV PARLIAMENT OPENS—Members take their places, discuss legislation, and read while waiting for the first regularly convened session of the Yugoslav Parliament to open in Belgrade. Previously, two extraordinary sessions had been held.

FLAGPOLE WEDDING — "Mad" Marshall Jacobs, Co-shootin', O., human fly, picked the top of a 176-foot flagpole for his wedding to "Lonnie" Cosmar.

END OF THE JAPANESE DREAM OF CONQUEST—When Japanese militarists started their attempt at world conquest, little did they dream that the metal they scraped together by the sacrifices of the people would end where it should have gone in the beginning, into pots and pans. The "War Weapons Disposal Committee" of Japan has given orders to five foundries to begin the work of destroying the military equipment. Some of the 12,000 planes Japan had at the end of the war are being melted down at the Furukawa Electro-Industry foundry near Tokyo. Workers, upper left, batter airplane parts into pieces suitable for melting, and upper right, cram the furnace with the broken pieces. Sixty per cent of the metal is duralumin. Through the sluice, lower left, comes a silvery stream of metal which workers, lower right, carefully pour into ingots. It later will be fashioned into rice pots and pans. Each plane provides metal for 500 rice pots or 900 smaller pans. Photos by Harlow M. Church, Acme staff photographer.

LITTLE FELLOW—BIG BREAK — New York City License Commissioner Benjamin Fielding decided that midget Robert Krauthamer is a handicapped person and here gives him the first newsstand permit issued under the new ruling.

NO SCHOOL—MAYBE—Thousands of French school teachers, led by a Nobel prize-winning physics professor, demonstrate for higher wages in a four-hour parade through Paris. The teachers say that unless they get the raise in pay they'll strike.

HE LOVES 'EM TOO—Peter Rauschenplat, Huntington, W. Va., youngster with a rare intestinal disease, has to eat bananas to stay alive. It is one food he is able to digest.

ASSEMBLY LINE—With the precision of an automobile assembly line, these pleasure boats are readied for launching at a Los Angeles boat building plant. The 40-foot cruisers develop a top speed of 40 miles per hour and have twin marine engines. They'll soon be cruising peacefully on the Pacific.

PEDAL - PUSHER is the name of this original design by Louis of London, English tailor. Three-quarter length trousers have smart masculine creases and cuffs. Sleeveless top and trousers are one piece, with tan leather belt encircling the waist.

OLD AND NEW—Ann Bucetti, 10, sits atop a balcony railing around the first brick house built in California. Bricks were kilned in Monterey and the house built there in 1847. It has been occupied continuously by Spanish families and now is a Spanish restaurant. House will be show place during U.S. Flag Centennial.

A GRATEFUL PEOPLE—USO junior volunteers from Manila decorate graves of American servicemen who were killed during fighting to liberate the city.
